

Cattle moving to Northern Territory Abattoirs are required to be identified with a radio frequency identification device (RFID) and the transfer must be recorded to the NLIS database.

Cattle moving directly from their property of birth to Northern Territory abattoirs may be identified with a transaction tag instead of an RFID.

When stock are identified with an RFID it is the responsibility of the abattoir to notify the database of the identification particulars of the RFID and the PIC of origin of the animal when it is slaughtered.

For information on interstate abattoir requirements see Fact Sheet Summary of Cattle Identification and Documentation Requirements – 2009.

Fact Sheets are available on our website: www.nt.gov.au/d/nlis or hard copies can be obtained by contacting LISA on 08 8999 2033.
