Message from the Chairman

It is with pleasure that I present the 17th Annual Report of the Heritage Advisory Council.

I note that once again a great deal has been achieved by the Council, working with the Heritage Branch, in 2007-08. Council considered twenty four assessment reports during the year, and thirteen places recommended by Council were declared as heritage places, including a number of places associated with World War Two. The NT Register also now has its first moveable heritage object, in the form of the steam locomotive the 'Sandfly'.

Council recommended approval be given to a major redevelopment proposal for the former Commonwealth Bank site in Darwin. The proposal includes sympathetic adaptive re-use of the original 1940 bank building.

I attended my first meeting of the Heritage Chairs and Officials in Cairns in March 2008, and I found this a very useful forum for exchanging information about different heritage management approaches, and for developing a national approach to issues.

Council became somewhat concerned in the course of the year at the apparent lack of progress in the review of the Heritage Conservation Act. However by the end of the year Council was advised that a draft bill had been finalised, and was shortly to be released to stakeholders. Council looks forward to providing input in this regard.

DR BRIAN REID

The functions of the Heritage Advisory Council are set out in Section 12 of the Heritage Conservation Act (reproduced in Appendix 1).

In broad terms Council has an advisory role regarding all matters pertaining to the identification, assessment, conservation and management of the Territory's natural and cultural heritage. This role also extends to provision of advice regarding appropriate policies and strategies for both the Territory's heritage, and nationwide through the National Heritage Chairs and Officials.

The Heritage Conservation Act 1991

The purpose and scope of the Act is to provide a system for the identification, assessment, recording, conservation and protection of places and objects of prehistoric, protohistoric, historic, social, aesthetic or scientific value, including geological structures, fossils, archaeological sites, ruins, buildings, gardens, landscapes, coastlines, and plant and animal communities or ecosystems of the Territory.

Assessment and Declaration

The Northern Territory Heritage Register includes a list of all places and objects that have been nominated to it, and their subsequent status following the assessment process.

Each place or object nominated to the NT Heritage Register is assessed against a number of criteria in order to ascertain its heritage value. These criteria are specified in the Regulations of the Act (Appendix 2).

The process by which places and objects are nominated, assessed and recommended for declaration is not a process that is undertaken lightly. As the figure in Appendix 3 illustrates, it is a process in which consultation and negotiation plays a large and important role in securing outcomes that provide for the future conservation of the Territory's heritage places.

Nominations

There were two nominations received during the last year, as follows:

- Batchelor Bowling Club
- The Country Women's Association of NT (Inc) Outback Mother's Memorial Hostel, Darwin.

The Minister refused to declare the Rum Jungle Single Person’s Quarters as a heritage place.

Places revoked or destroyed

There were no heritage places revoked by the Minister during the year, nor any heritage places destroyed.

Of these, 411 have been assessed. A total of 213 places and objects have been declared as heritage places and objects.

Advice on development proposals

The Heritage Conservation Act 1991 requires Council to cause a register to be kept, which includes a list of all declared heritage places. This register is known as the Northern Territory Heritage Register (NTHR). A constant task for staff is responding to queries from members of the public as to whether a property is listed on the NTHR, or whether it is affected in some other way by the provisions of the Heritage Conservation Act 1991.

Staff are also required to provide more detailed advice to development proponents regarding their obligations under the Heritage Conservation Act 1991.

Conservation and Management

Council oversees a range of programs designed to both assist owners and to achieve the best possible conservation outcome.

Government Incentives Package

For owners of declared heritage places, the Government Incentives Package provides rates relief, free technical advice, and eligibility for funding under the NT Heritage Grant Program (NTHGP).

Owners of declared heritage places used for residential purposes are reimbursed 75% of their rates whilst owners of commercial places are reimbursed 25% of their rates.

Free expert advice is available to owners of declared heritage places regarding proposed work. Heritage conservation architects have been retained in Darwin and Alice Springs in order to provide Territory-wide coverage.

Applications for the NTHGP are received and assessed by the Heritage Advisory Council, which then forwards a recommended program to the Minister for consideration. The successful projects for the 2007-08 round are listed in Table 3. A total of 10 projects were funded to a value of $198,400.

Education and Promotion

Education and promotion of heritage is an important function of Council.

'Heritage News' was published in October 2007 but publication has since lapsed, due to pressure on the resources of the Heritage Branch. Council now needs to consider what other options there might be for publicising the activities of the Council and the Heritage Branch
