

Badu Island local artist shortlisted in 2010 Telstra Art Award

21 July 2010 - Alick Tipoti from Badu Island in the Torres Strait is one of only 96 artists announced as a finalist in this year's 27th Telstra National Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Art Award for his three dimensional work titled "Kazilayg".

Tipoti created the 3.5metre Kazilayg, or pregnant dugong, using a new medium for him, of resin and fibreglass and took just under six months to complete the work.

"I see this particular work as a birth of something amazing. That's why I created a pregnant dugong carrying twins so that spiritually from this I can then create many more of its kind," Tipoti said.

Tipoti's work has been exhibited extensively throughout Australia and in 2009 he held exhibitions in Hawaii and New York. He is a former winner of the 2003 and 2007 Telstra Art Award Works on Paper category and won the 2008 People's Choice Award.

Telstra Art Award Curator, Kate Podger said there had been a diverse range of artworks submitted, from traditional works on paper, paintings, barks and three dimensional artworks to, for the first time, entries in the Telstra New Media Award.

"I congratulate all of the artists from across Australia who entered this year - the Telstra Art Award continues to evolve and grow to offer new opportunities for Indigenous artists to showcase their extraordinary talents," Ms Podger said.

Telstra Chief Marketing Officer, Kate McKenzie, said the Telstra Art Award provides an important national showcase for the work of Indigenous artists from all around the country.

"We're proud that Telstra's support of the Telstra Art Award for the last 19 years has helped Indigenous artists like Alick Tipoti gain recognition, and enabled more Australians to see their outstanding work," Ms McKenzie said.

Now in its 27th year, the Telstra Art Award is the first and longest running art award dedicated to the work of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander artists, and is an opportunity for Indigenous Australians to express and celebrate their culture, beliefs and society.

The Telstra Art Award comprises the $40,000 Telstra Award and $4,000 to other categories including; the Telstra General Painting Award, the Telstra Bark Painting Award, the Telstra Work on Paper Award and the Wandjuk Marika Memorial 3D Award (also sponsored by Telstra) in addition to the Telstra New Media Award ($3,000).

The 27th Telstra National Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander Art Award exhibition opens on Friday, 13 August 2010.
